“ Dave was my last boss before i left Hyster. He expected things to be done, done right, and done in a timely fashion, but he was honest and had the courage to say the things that needed to be said whether they were good or not so good, both on the spot and on evaluations.

Several people were critical of Dave's supervision style. They felt he watched them too closely. I enjoyed working for Dave, he treated me well, expected good performance and, once he learned he could depend on me to stay busy and get the job done, pretty much left me alone to get my work done. i learned a lot from Dave and appreciated how he confided in me as he became ill. He told me he was sometimes unaware of his tremors and asked me to mention it to him if I noticed.

Dave was a good man and one of the best bosses I ever had. I know this is quite late but i just decided to do a search for him and learned of his passing. I am glad to have known him and to have worked for and with him. I am very sorry to hear of his passing.

Blessings to Barb and family.

“ Thinking of Dave and Barb and all of their friends and family as they gather together to celebrate such a good man, husband, father, uncle or friend. Though Dave is finally at rest, he will remain in the memory of all who knew him; in the hearts of those that loved him; in a star that reminds the beholder of him,; in a cardinal that appears near your side; in a drop of rain that causes a memory of him. May Dave rest In peace and visit Barb often to help her through her grief and guide her sadness to joy until the day comes when they can be together again. God Bless! - Jim and Mary Lynn May

“ This Man - My Brother

Quiet in nature
Rich in integrity
Sweet in humor
Wise in perspective
Driven in accomplishment of tasks
Positive in outlook and approach
Curious in experience and discovery
Dedicated in loving

A truly good man, son, brother, husband, father, grandfather and friend.

I will gratefully carry you in my heart every day of my life. I know Mom and Dad, along with a host of others, have joyfully welcomed you home. I love you my big brother.

So sorry to hear about Dave's passing. So many weekend get togethers were the one thing that came to mind immediately. Dave always had such a big smile and great demeanor. He is with Harbour and Marion again and doing some catching up. Prayers to all the Boesch family. From Paul & LuAnn Schaecher
