“ Many good thoughts of John and the great times he, his brother Bill and I had in our youth. So long ago and what seems to have gone by so quickly. Fortunately we all have memories which no one can take away. I only wish I had seen more of John in recent years. I pass on all of my condolences to Diane and the rest of John's family. May you hold those good memories close forever. Neil Kastor

“ This is Jack Stangel. I was John's friend from the Princeton Inn. John may have his faults to some, but he was always a gentleman to me. We would sit side by side. Some times not a word between us except hello for a while. After a bit I would say, "You'r thinking John. He would say yep. I let him think for a while then we would have a conversation. About the Civil war, arrow heads and the indians or his fathers part in ww2. He was my friend and I shall think of him often. My condolences to all his family. I'll miss just seeing the bill of his seed hat barely above the dash board while he drove down the street. He taught me his old college toast which I can not repeat here. But I shall always remember it always. It made us both laugh. (Yes he did smile and laugh a time or to.) He was my friend. With Love and respect Jack.
